To Whom it May Concern:

My name is Jibari Daniels. I am a UI/UX Designer and Front-End Developer from New York City. Since I graduated school in the fall of 2010, I have been implementing my personal touch from IBM to various multimedia and marketing firms throughout the New York City metropolitan area. As a UI/UX designer and front-end developer with a strong desire to excel in this profession, I seek to align myself with a company that will allow me to utilize and enhance my leadership and technical skills, for the betterment of the company. With this goal in mind, I have attached a resume and mini portfolio outlining my qualifications, along with an online link (www.jibarid.com), which contains a digital portfolio of my work.

My resume exemplifies my analytical skills and design capabilities as a result of my ability, I became employed by IBM as a Senior Informational Designer and Front-End Developer for sales teams on proposals. Working with teams in an Agile environment, I prototyped a variety of different design deliverables such as UI/UX designs, websites, web/mobile applications, catalogs and infographics for fortune 100 companies such as Verizon, Microsoft, Coca Cola, Citibank, and Metlife. Additionally, I facilitated Design Thinking workshops and successfully created a web development guild with over 30 monthly participants.

Besides IBM, I also worked at Vcom IMC as their Lead Graphic Designer and Front-End Developer. During my employment at Vcom IMC, I designed, developed and managed a digital presence and communications strategy for a network of more than 15 e-commerce websites. I also supervised another designer using advanced design principles to produce various websites, applications, package designs, corporate layouts, and banners. In the course of my employment at Vcom IMC I completely rebranded the company and was an ongoing project manager for long-term multi-department projects, workflow revisions, and new product development.

Throughout my collegiate years, I became employed by the school as their Lead Graphic Designer and Web Developer where I completed a wide range of web and print projects for various departments throughout the University. In addition to being employed by the University, Vcom, and IBM, I also worked independently as a UI/UX Designer and Front-End Developer for various companies throughout Florida, New Jersey, and New York City. In the spring of 2014, I was the creative director for a start-up agency and their mobile application called Cop Stop Coach. Using Agile methodologies I oversaw the execution of Cop Stop Coach from conceptualization to ideation to completion. During my time working on the application I was responsible to ensure successful delivery of UX visions, UX workflows, UI prototypes, usability tests, and front-end development.

Aspiring to work for an organization that implements technology and business strategies, I am fully capable of taking on challenging tasks, learning new skills, and building upon my knowledge base. I have a solid background in Servant Leadership, Design Thinking, and Agile methodologies, including delivering dynamic visuals and innovative strategies for Fortune 100 brands. I am accustomed to a fast paced environment where deadlines are a priority and multitasking is the norm. I enjoy a challenge and work hard to attain my goals. In addition to my qualifications and experiences, I am proficient in growing market share, steering customer base, and managing teams to work cohesively together to turn creative concepts into reality. I look forward in continuing to follow these aspects as a pivotal leader, striving on a daily basis to motivate myself, as well as my team members with attitudes that will lead them to greatness. Please review my credentials. I am excited about speaking with you further about an opportunity to work for your company. Contact me directly anytime. Once again, thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
